MANAM PHILOSOPHY

Mental healthcare begins with understanding.

At MANAM, we look beyond symptoms to understand the person experiencing them: their thoughts, emotions, behaviour, circumstances and the people around them.

Psychiatric care may involve medication, psychotherapy, or a combination of both, depending on the individual's needs.

ABOUT DR. BHOOMI

Meet Dr. Bhoomi Raval

Consultant Psychiatrist | MBBS, MD Psychiatry (Gold Medalist)

I believe psychiatric care begins with understanding the person, not simply identifying a diagnosis.

Every individual brings their own thoughts, experiences, relationships and circumstances to what they are going through. My role as a psychiatrist is to understand these layers carefully, arrive at an appropriate clinical assessment, and work with the individual towards meaningful recovery.

My approach combines psychiatric assessment, evidence-based treatment and psychotherapy, with the understanding that different people may need different forms of care at different stages.

I have a particular interest in depression, anxiety and mood disorders, OCD, psychotic disorders, adolescent and women's mental health, trauma-related concerns, de-addiction and sexual health. My psychotherapy work includes CBT, REBT and integrated approaches.

You do not have to arrive with all the answers. You can simply come with what you are experiencing. We can understand the rest together.

SERVICES

How we can help

Care is individualised and may involve psychiatric care, psychotherapy, medication, or a combination of approaches.

01	Psychiatric consultation	A detailed clinical assessment to understand your symptoms, concerns, history and current circumstances. This may include diagnosis, treatment planning, medication when appropriate, and follow-up care. Assessment Diagnosis Medication management Follow-up
02	Psychotherapy	Understand patterns in your thoughts, emotions and behaviour, and develop more effective ways of responding to difficulties. Therapy is tailored to your concerns, goals and clinical needs. CBT REBT Integrated psychotherapy
03	Adolescent mental health	Age-appropriate assessment and care for emotional, behavioural, academic, social and family-related concerns that can present differently during adolescence.
04	Women's mental health	Care for concerns related to mood, anxiety, reproductive transitions, relationships, trauma and other difficulties across different stages of a woman's life.
05	De-addiction & substance use	Support related to alcohol, tobacco, cannabis, prescription medicines or other substances, including their psychological and physical impact and co-existing psychiatric concerns.
06	Sexual health & psychological concerns	A confidential, non-judgmental space to discuss psychological and emotional concerns related to sexuality, relationships, sexual functioning and associated distress.

CONDITIONS

Concerns we can help you understand

You do not need to know your diagnosis before seeking psychiatric help. An assessment can help clarify your symptoms and the care that may be appropriate.

♦ Anxiety & panic Persistent worry, excessive fear, panic attacks, physical symptoms of anxiety and difficulty coping with everyday situations.	♦ Depression & mood disorders Persistent low mood, loss of interest, changes in sleep or appetite, reduced energy and mood fluctuations affecting daily life.	♦ OCD Obsessions, unwanted intrusive thoughts and repetitive behaviours or mental rituals that can become difficult to control.
♦ Bipolar disorder Significant changes in mood, energy, activity and behaviour, including depression and periods of elevated or unusually activated mood.	♦ Psychosis & schizophrenia Experiences such as hallucinations, delusions, significant behavioural changes or difficulty distinguishing experiences from reality.	♦ Trauma-related concerns Persistent fear, avoidance, intrusive memories or changes in mood and behaviour following traumatic or overwhelming experiences.
♦ Sleep-related concerns Difficulty falling or staying asleep, irregular sleep patterns, or sleep problems associated with psychological or psychiatric concerns.	♦ Adolescent mental health Emotional, behavioural, social or psychological difficulties affecting mood, anxiety, behaviour, school or relationships.	♦ Substance use concerns Difficulties related to alcohol, tobacco, prescription medicines or other substances, including dependence or difficulty stopping.

Not sure where your symptoms fit? That is okay. You do not need to diagnose yourself before seeking help.

PSYCHOTHERAPY

Therapy is not just about talking.

Psychotherapy is a structured process that can help you understand patterns in your thoughts, emotions and behaviour, work through difficulties, and develop more effective ways of responding to them.

At MANAM, therapy is tailored to the individual's concerns, clinical needs and goals. It may be used on its own or alongside psychiatric treatment and medication.

WHAT THERAPY CAN HELP WITH

Anxiety • Depression • OCD • Stress • Relationship difficulties • Trauma-related concerns • Emotional regulation • Self-esteem

APPROACHES MAY INCLUDE

Cognitive Behaviour Therapy CBT

Working with patterns of thoughts, emotions and behaviours that may be contributing to distress.

Rational Emotive Behaviour Therapy REBT

Exploring unhelpful beliefs and developing healthier, more flexible ways of responding to situations.

Integrated psychotherapy

Drawing from approaches such as DBT, existential and humanistic therapy when appropriate, rather than following a one-size-fits-all model.
